

Step 5 – Installing a VPN

In order to move your ETH into your new arbitraging.co account, you will need to be reveal the Arbitraging.co destination wallet address (where you are sending your ETH to).

To do this, you must access the site through a Virtual Private Network or “VPN.”

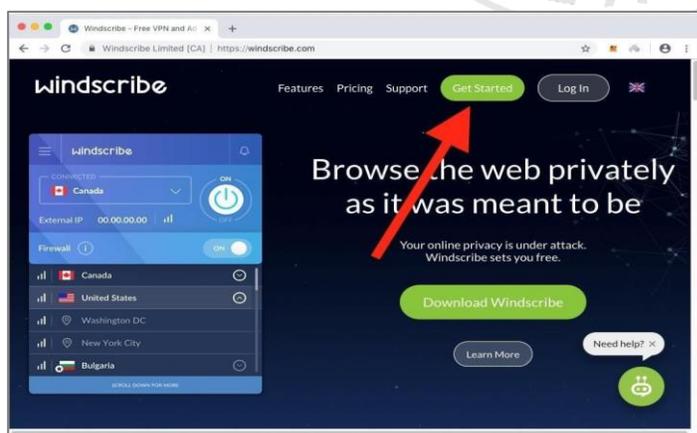

Arbitraging.co put the VPN requirement in place to protect the program from future government regulations. When you access a site through a VPN, your IP address is anonymous, so there is no record of what country you are logging in from and therefor no proof that it is a US-based account.

This extra cautionary measure is a way for Arbitraging.co to cover their bases and get ahead of restrictions that may or may not be implemented in the future. To the best of our knowledge, this account is completely legal today and no such restrictions exist.

There are several free VPNs to choose from. The one we will be using is Windscribe.

 If you already have a VPN that you use regularly, you are free to skip this step.

1. In your web browser go to: windscribe.com.
2. Click the “Get Started” button in the top right corner of the page.

We recommend using the Windscribe app for your computer rather than the browser extension. We have tried it both ways and the app seems to be more reliable and easier to use.

In the section labeled “Windscribe for Your Computer,” select the version that matches your operating system. Our examples will be from a PC using Windows 10.

3. Click the button for your operating system to download the app to your computer.
4. Once downloaded, find the .exe file on your computer and double-click to start the installation process. This will be located in either your Downloads folder or at the bottom of your web browser.

You now have a functioning VPN. Turn the VPN off for now. Your VPN should remain OFF unless the instructions tell you to turn it on. Leaving it on for extended periods of time will use up your free data and require you to purchase more data. You should never need to purchase data for our purposes.
